850 HYLAN BOULEVARD ● STATEN ISLAND, NEW YORK 10305

In the following pages we have tried to capture all aspects of school life. The Hill has a spirit all its own. Studies, activities and "hallway happenings" personify the special memories of our four years here. The good times shared with classmates, as well as underclassmen, are unforgettably imprinted within us.

The unifying force in any educational system is based on the compatibility of the students and faculty. At the Hill, this becomes more than a theory. The willingness to help each other is a reality. In attempting to view this "certain spirit", the staff has compiled the 1970 hill-topper.

BEYOND THE BRIGHT SEARCHLIGHTS OF SCIENCE, OUT OF SIGHT OF THE WINDOWS OF SENSE, OLD RIDDLES OF WHY AND OF WHENCE.

Our energetic kitchen squad keeps things rolling while "goodies" are served at open house.

Left: With the absence of the seniors, these juniors needed firemen to help rescue the flag.

Life is a pattern, a maze, a dare

"Puzzle—to solve, discover or make by mental labor or ingenuity".

Puzzle pieces are scattered everywhere. Their sizes, shapes and colors are unique. Connecting these dissimilar parts produces a beautiful picture.

Perhaps the most complex puzzle of all is life. It weaves all emotions into the intricate design of individuality. The personal experiences of high school years come alive when interlocked with pieces of yourself. Life searches to complete its pattern and entangle within itself the magic of people.

Administration

The spirit and vitality of Sister Charlotte is an ever present part of our school life. As Principal, Sister takes a personal interest in the lives of all the girls. She performs this phenomenal task as well as coordinating school functions. Her tireless efforts merit our sincere "Thanks" and admiration.

Aiding Sr. Charlotte in administration is Sister Scholastica, the Assistant Principal. The staggering job of Senior Guidance Counselor demands not only her patience, but also a sincere understanding of the capabilities of each girl. This time consuming work is greatly appreciated by the Seniors.

Our spiritual growth is strengthened by the prayers of Father Elmer Reiss. Father presides at graduation, the Junior ring ceremony and other official programs.

For there are those...

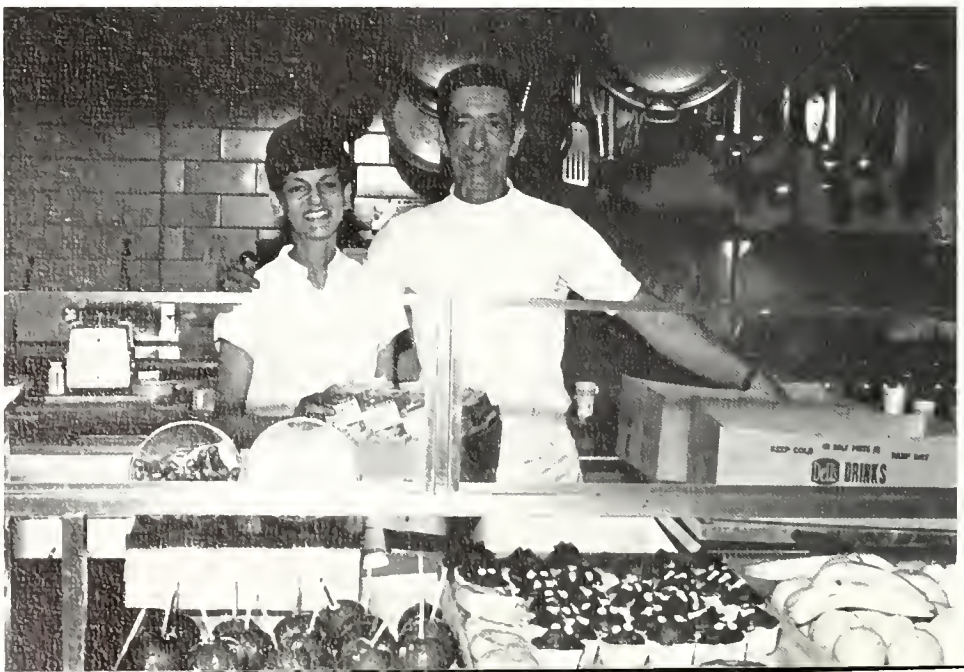

No one at the Hill tries to pretend on a Wednesday, as that is when Mrs. Roitzsch, alias "Nancy Nurse" is on duty. Whether it is African sleeping sickness or just a common cold our school nurse is ready to help her patient.

With a sly smile, Donna Gallagher greets latecomers with "tardy slips." Her cheerfulness abounds with every helping hand she lends and makes the most unpleasant visit to the office a little nicer.

Lunch is always an experience when Angie and Steve Mandrachio prepare it. Anything from jelly apples to eggplant parmigian can be bought. And one thing for sure, "Angie is always there!"

who care.

The smiling face of Stanley was always a pleasant sight for students at the Hill. He gave his service and time, and left many fine memories. The trust and importance placed upon Stanley was always accepted with a cheerful and willing attitude.

Autumn finds the grounds of St. Joe's covered with leaves. Trying to keep up with this never ending downpour is Ralph Maviglia.

Henry Seaman one of our long standing janitors takes a five minute break from his schedule. You can depend on him to do his best to keep our school clean.

The workroom is one of the places where John Tedesco can be found. One of his first jobs here, was the staining of a new shelf.

Learning inspired by initiative

Four seniors were awarded Certificates of Merit as a result of the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Lynn Radonic, Jean Beil, Elizabeth Angyal and Barbara Coyle received the certificates on the basis of their scores. This distinction recognized the high academic standing of the girls as well as that of the school.

Opposite page—Seniors Maryelisa Graber, Barbara Bellafiore, Lynn Radonic, Pat Shanahan, Linda Siconolfi and Eileen Boyd seated, were also awarded Regents Scholarships. Not pictured is Margaret McNally. Qualifying for Regents Scholarships is based on the scores the girls received on a comprehensive exam. The monetary value of the scholarships depends on the family's income.

Each year four full scholarships and two partial scholarships are awarded to Freshmen who have proven their scholastic ability. Sister Charlotte presented the girls with their certificates at the mid-semester assembly. The four full scholarships went to P. Boera, D. Daunt, bottom row; R. Loffredo and M. Robinson, top row; and two partial scholarships went to R. Palladino and E. Costa, middle row.

For graduating students, college life will not be easy but Hilltoppers are surrounded by aids which will make the transferral a smooth one. Utilizing the library's reference sources, this group of Seniors pauses to glance the photographer's way. Patricia Severino, Stefani O'Connor seated, and Jane Granite, Pat Giarratano, Ellen Zanfini, Joan Dreyfuss and Carol DeLillo standing, are recipients of New York State Regents Scholarships. Perhaps research helped them win this honor.

Words brought to life by sound

To augment their studies in English, Freshmen delve into extra research projects. Additional information found in newspapers, periodicals and reference guides, increases the store of knowledge found through text book use. Here Michele Martori displays her finished scrapbook to interested classmates.

Making the fantasy world of Camelot come to life are sophomores Crystal Tallia and Joselle DiNunzio who reconstructed the fairy tale village with cardboard and glue.

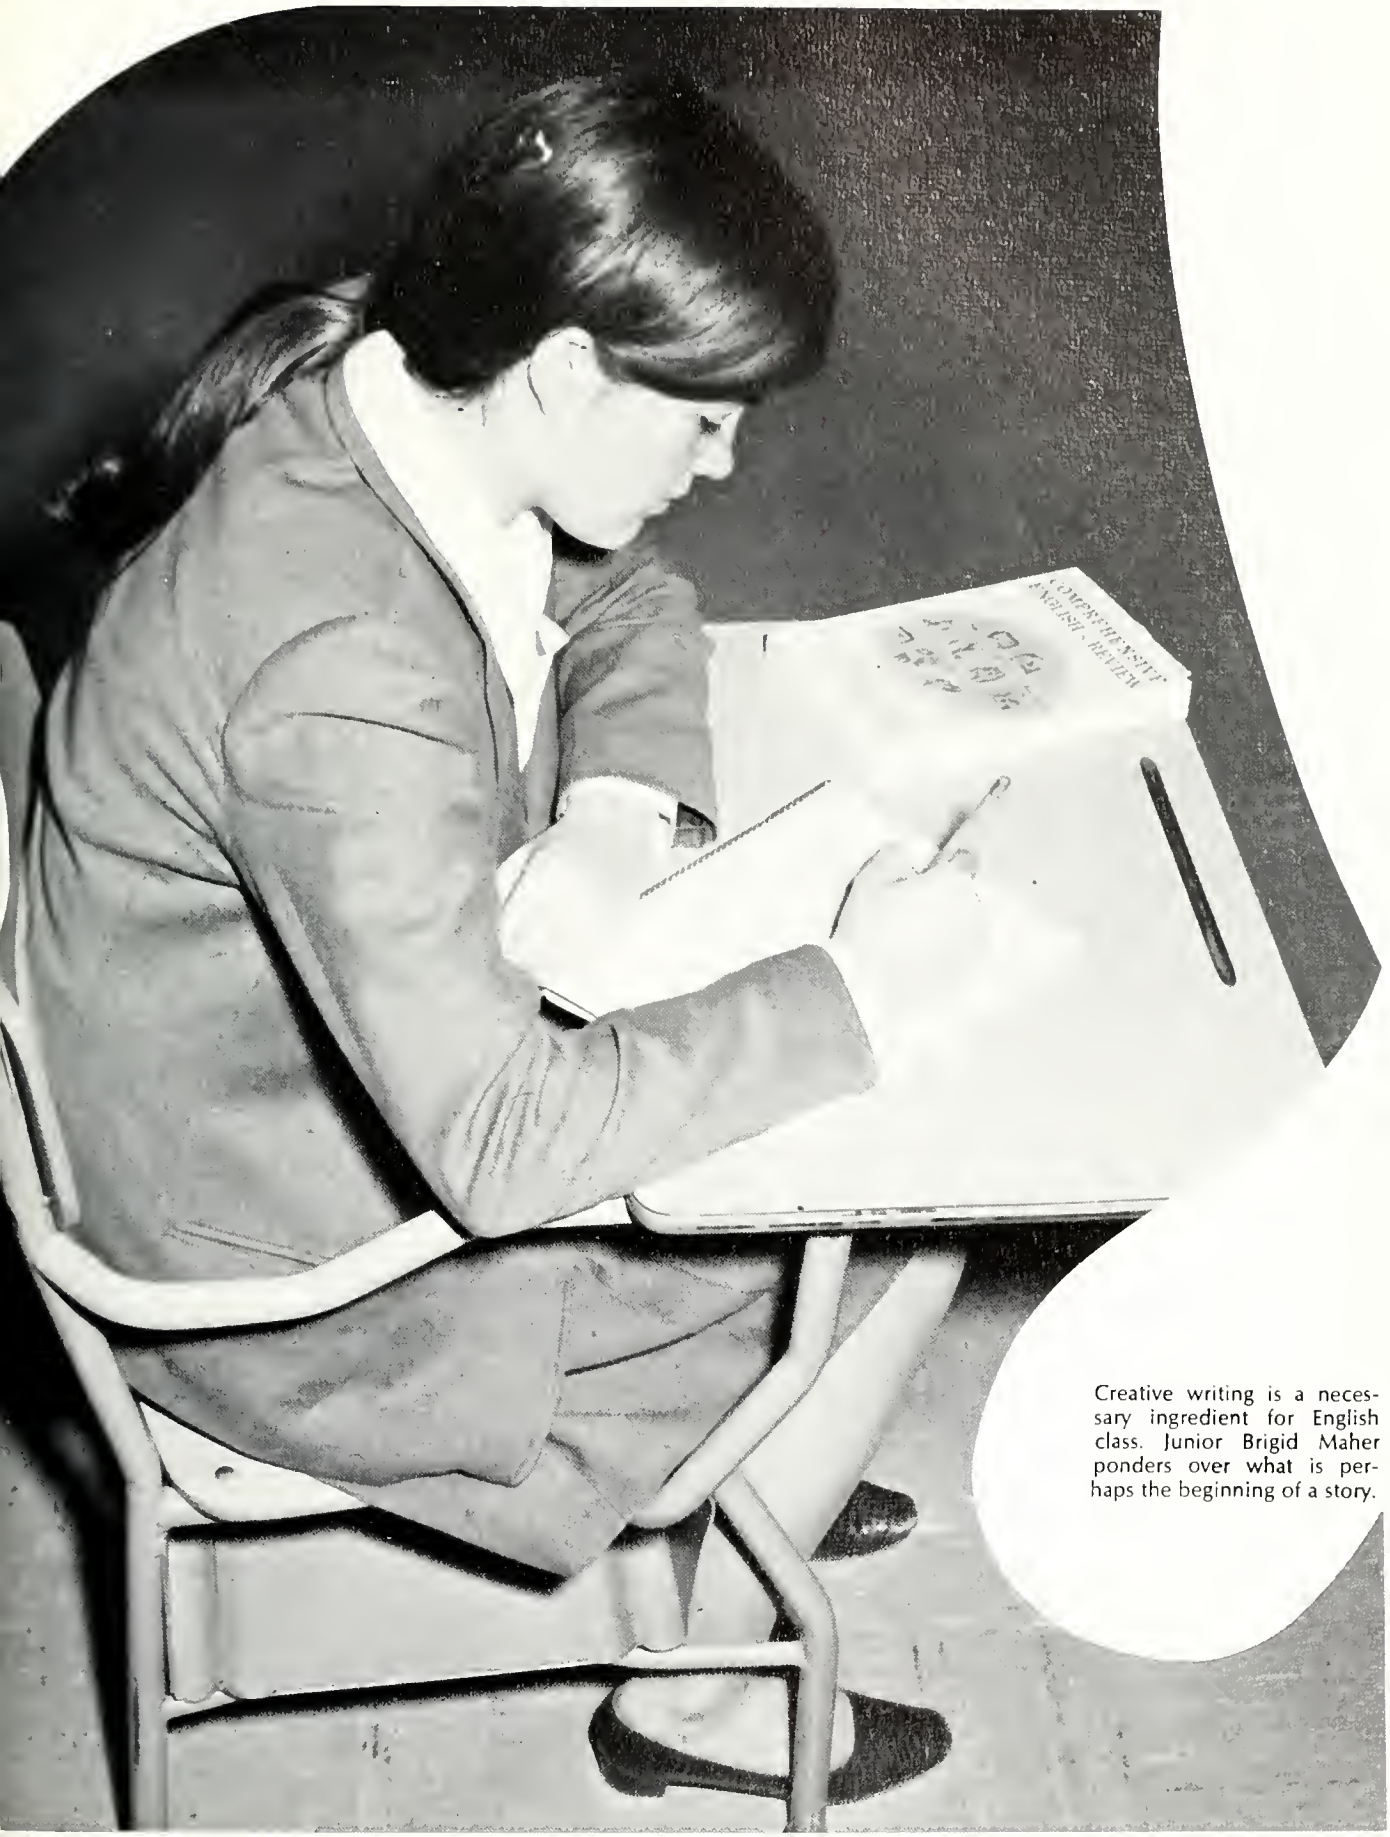

Senior English classes are filled with interesting projects and assignments. Ava Schoentube and Stefani O'Connor act out a scene from the tale of "Chanticleer and Pertelote."

Seniors taking the Great Books program offered this year find themselves very interested in their work. L. Gilroy, J. Abascal, P. Scampas, J. Corrente and L. McAlister begin class while M. Mauriello writes the days theme on the blackboard. This in-depth course gave the girls a more personal view of literature.

Creative writing is a necessary ingredient for English class. Junior Brigid Maher ponders over what is perhaps the beginning of a story.

Ideas of old meet ideals of the future

Sister Dolora carefully plans each of her Afro-Asian studies classes and supplements them with cultural artifacts. Freshman Pamela Prevosti examines a Japanese statue while Doreen Del-Rosario reads about life in India.

Barbara Bellafiore acts as hostess at the Economics Fair given by Senior 107. Mrs. Gallagher and Miss Leone served as honorary judges. This project, assigned to the Seniors by Miss Amelia, helped curb spiraling inflation and taught them the value of a dollar.

Claudia Schmid, Marilyn Marr and Stephanie D'Anna have every intention of picking up some extra information as they review World History with their "teacher" Gerry Moore. Just look at those inquisitive faces. HELP GERRY!!

Barbara Loperfido happily recites, "Knit one purl two," as she works on her scarf. Many Seniors continued their Economics project while on retreat. Yarn and knitting needles became a familiar sight.

This year Juniors and Seniors were given the opportunity to further their understanding of American History. America's accomplishments from her origin to the 1970's are covered in this course. Sister Raimonde strives to better prepare her students for college history.

Linguistic ability blends culture

Christmas is the time of year for being happy. This is plainly shown on the faces of freshmen, E. Rassi, K. McKinnon, B. Reed, and E. Patrone as they listen to a French Christmas carol being played by Charleen Penny.

Latin is one of the courses taken by the Juniors this year. J. Hayes, A. Henchey, J. Foge and K. Ledford seem to be quite involved in the day's lesson.

Sophomores M. Parenti, J. Herrman and M. Dubrowski appear to be enjoying themselves with their new friends. One of the students brought these colorful Mexican puppets for a Spanish Club meeting.

"Testing 1, 2, 3," the language lab is now in session. Sister Patrice keeps in contact with freshmen Ellen Patino, Rose Ann Pileggi, Josephine Cuccurullo and Joanne Maltese. The lab aids the students in both their oral and listening comprehension besides helping them acquire a proper pronunciation of the language.

Once a month, language students get away from their routine lesson structure to combine learning and enjoyment at a language club meeting. Seniors Jackie D'Anna and Linda Siconolfi practice a new French song.

Summer in Spain was an experience worth remembering for Pat Sheehan. Pat attended the University of Salamanca and toured the countryside with Sr. Patrice and thirteen fellow Hilltoppers.

German food tastes good even if you aren't German. J. Cogliandro, K. Foster, J. La Plante, and J. Salvi, proudly display their masterpiece of frankfurters and sauerkraut.

Minds probe for answers

This year the complexities of Science were explored by twenty-two Seniors during their course in Advanced Biology. Camille DeRose concentrates on the respiration rate of yeast in serial dilutions.

There's enough worry involved when you have to take your own temperature, no less that of an unidentified solution! Liz Gargiulo carefully watches as the temperature rises. It's amazing how accurate a thermometer can be, but only a chemist knows for sure.

Laboratory work is an important part of the General Science curriculum as proved by Freshmen 224. Learning the correct procedure for recording statistics is necessary for the two years of Science that follow. Mary Jane Ignozza and Ceil Haring calculate the weight of a cylinder while their lab partners Kathy Doyle and Jean Zurmuhlen verify data. Their classmates, unaware of the camera, continue the assignment.

A knowledge of first aid is vital in an emergency. Here sophomores Jeana Veltri and Sandra Swensen demonstrate the correct method of artificial respiration during their Health Ed. class.

Sophomore Biology students find a world of interesting things through experiments in the lab. Gail Greendale and Mary Beth Pfeiffer learn about carbohydrates in food. This is one investigation which the girls could put to practical use in the kitchen.

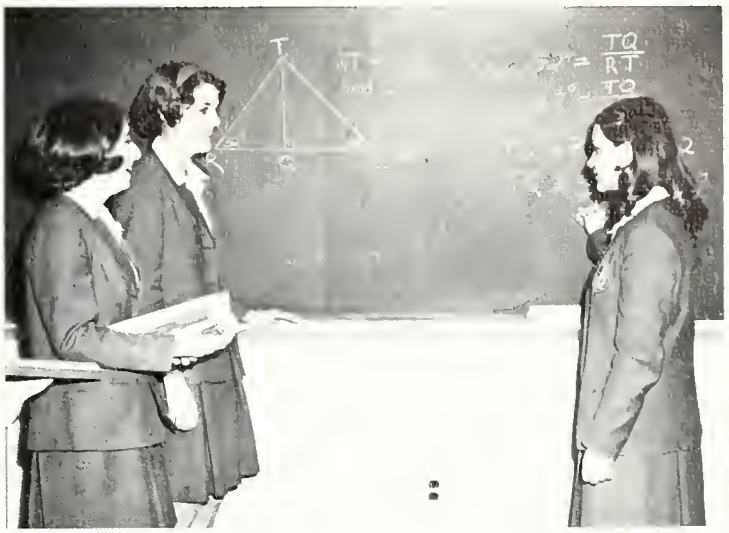

Solving numerical puzzles

Freshmen are always asking questions, especially when it comes to Math. In this class Donna Pecoraro appears to be having a problem which demands the attention of Sister Christopher.

There's always a price to pay when you don't get all your Math homework done at home. Although a demerit doesn't seem too likely for freshmen Monica Robinson and Terry Capone, they're missing out on the joke Diane Cannavo is telling.

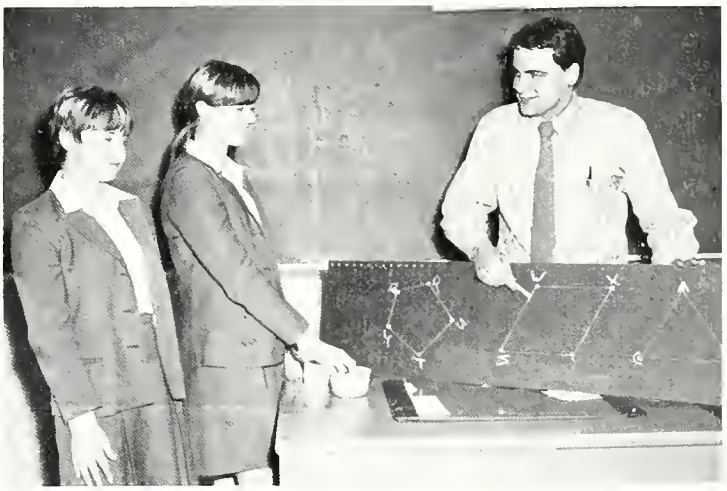

Pausing in the middle of solving a Geometry problem, Emlyn Bodnar looks to Marge Potenza and Estelle Granite for a reassuring smile. If in the end her solution is correct she will be both satisfied and relieved.

"Geometry can be fun!" is the phrase coined by Mr. Dernback as he illustrates the concept of points to sophomores Diane Sweeney & Donna Yamarone. The Geo-board is a helpful visual aid in explaining the principles of Tenth Year Math.

The quiet of an empty homeroom provides the proper atmosphere for juniors R. Thompson and M. A. Corley to begin their Trig homework.

Solving the complexities of Eleventh Year Math is a joy in the morning to juniors Pat Johnson and Gerri Leggiadro as they rattle their wits during first period.

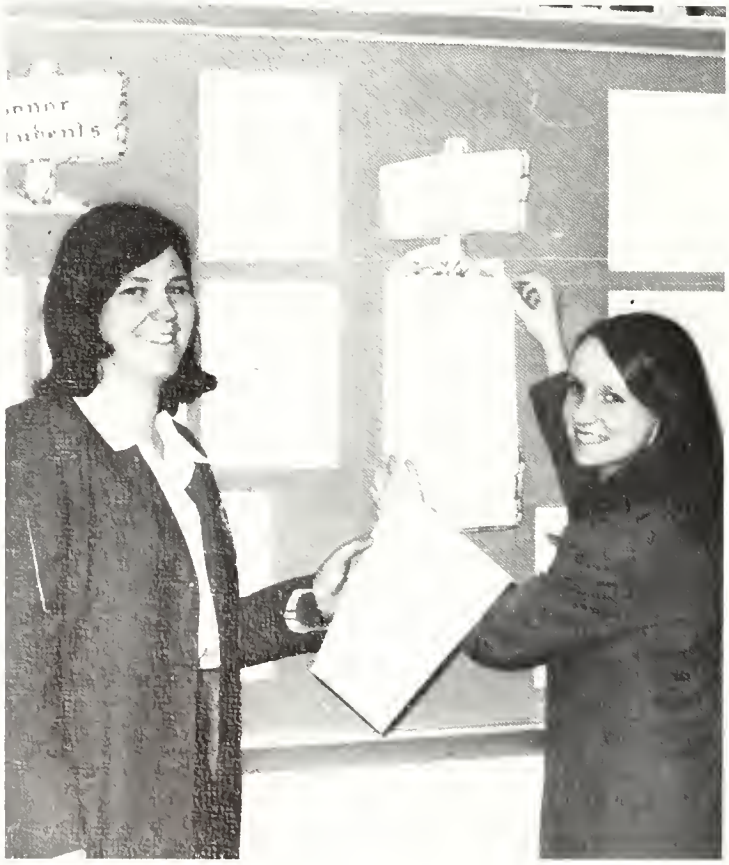

Expression in different form

Typing skill demands careful concentration and constant attention to the manuscript. First year students find the typewriter a challenge to their manual dexterity. Mary Krause, Pat Shanahan, Mary DiGregorio and Sharon Burke strive to increase speed while maintaining accuracy.

Developing shorthand skills through class participation is the routine in Steno class. Senior Anne Goff projects a number of steno outlines to be corrected and criticized by the class.

A relaxing break from the regular routine of Typing class is the chance to try art typing. First and second year students alike anticipate "drawing" with the typewriter. Jean Hogan and Donna Nagengast arrange a new display of typewritten masterpieces.

Driver Ed A different source of knowledge

Driver Education is an important study which requires concentration and skill. Mr. Vine, the Driver Ed teacher, readies the projector for films concerning driving conditions and safety hazards.

Trying to warn Mr. Vine what's in store for him, Katie Galluzzi gets ready to take over the wheel. Learning to drive can be a hair-raising experience. Just ask Mr. Vine!

Always relieved to know that you were not in your first accident is the feeling you have after a session of Driver Education. Jane Hayes finds it a rather easy feat to open a car door, but Liz Gargiulo and Rosemary Procopio don't think that this is a requirement for passing the course.

A new touch was added to Freshmen and Sophomore weekly guidance classes. Sister Susan, their Guidance Counselor, gives her personal thoughts to a question posed by Mary Navarra. The look on Sister's face seems to confirm that a solution has been reached.

Sister Genevieve, as the school Librarian, conducts a Freshmen Library Science course to teach students the proper use of the library's assets. In this class Sister shows D. DiFalco, C. LoFaro, D. Goldie, B. Auriemma and L. Fereno how to find articles with the help of the Reader's Guide.

For Sister Imelda's students, Music Appreciation entails research of all kinds. Meg Masefield and Andrea Ferrie are using the facilities of the library to find facts concerning the life of Renaissance composer Giovanni Palestrina.

Running for the ball but trying not to collide, sophomores Kathy Zurmuhlen, Tina Giacolone and Emlyn Bodnar keep the volley moving. Volleyball rules are explained in Gym class and when the game begins, all eyes focus on the ball.

Sitting in front of the bulletin board is senior Janet Merola. Janet's purpose in the art room is to find a picture for her next Art class. One certain picture seems to have captured her eye but the choice is so wide, Janet can't seem to decide.

"Life is an exciting business and most exciting

when it is lived for others"

Knowledge–a complex part of life

Perhaps the National Honor Society seems like an impossible dream to many students but each year girls are inducted into our Lampadarii Chapter. Each member must prove herself in the areas of scholarship, leadership, character and service. Her marks are proof of her scholarship and the other traits are graded by the faculty.

Under the direction of Sr. Scholastica, the members manage the book store, tutor fellow students, and sponsor "It's Academic."

Seniors Linda Siconolfi, Jean Beil, Ellen Zanfini and Lynn Radonic culminate four years of hard work with their induction into the National Honor Society.

One of the duties of National Honor Society members is to manage the school book store. Seniors Jean Beil and Lynn Radonic ready the supplies for another morning's business.

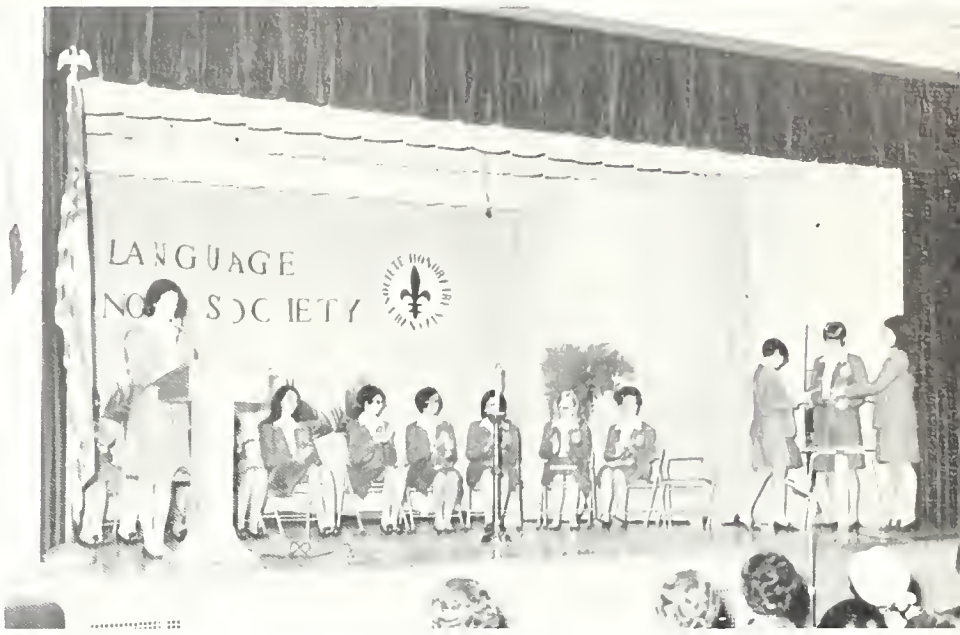

Congratulations are in order as two newly inducted members of the National Honor Society, Lynn Radonic and Ellen Zanfini receive best wishes from both friends and relatives. The girls, along with two other Seniors, were received into the Lampadarii Chapter of the Society.

The essence of a word is language

Alumnas que muestran excellencia en español son recibidas en la Sociedad Honoraria Hispánica. Con la ayuda de su consejera, Hermana Patrice, las chicas publicaron un periódico llamado La Estrella Hispánica.

Les etudiante que excellent en français, entrent dans la Societe Honoraire de Français. A l'aide de la conseulleuse Soure Josita, les jeunes filles aident leurs camarades a maitrisser la langue française.

As a result of her proficiency in French, Andrea Leone receives her French Honor Society pin and card from Ellen Zanfini and Maryelisa Graber.

With the aid of an illuminated drawing board, Hispanic art takes on new form as Regina Castro creates whimsical figures for the Spanish newspaper.

Five young men from the University of Madrid entertained the student body with Spanish folk songs, following the induction of thirteen girls into the Spanish and French Honor Societies. They are a part of the University's Tuna or Glee Club, and have spent several months touring the United States.

Student Council

Student Council Representatives M. Mauriello, T. Tierney, J. Zerillo, D. Pecoraro, D. Cannavo, L. Negron, B. Esmillo, M. Potenza, M. P. Roitzsch, Sec./Treas. Kneeling: N. Martin, S. Vazzana. Sitting: D. Nagengast, D. Coviello, G. Hall, Vice-Pres., K. Johnsen, R. Schoentube, J. Merola and P. Severino, Pres., take time out to pose for a picture. The girls are planning the campaign to help defray the cost of our Language lab by selling plastic animals.

The Student Council functions as a coordinating organization for the student body. The main objective of the Council is to instill a deeper concern for the Hill's welfare into each student.

The meetings held approximately every two weeks generate ideas between faculty and students.

One of the proposals acted on by the Council this year was shortening the school day. Transforming the hope for a swim team into a reality was also accomplished. The twenty-three girls elected as representatives carry the responsibilities of understanding, leadership and dependability.

Caught in the act, Pat Severino, Student Council President, looks surprised as the camera spots her counting money from the latest Student Council project.

Glee Club

The St. Joseph Hill Glee Club offers those who enjoy singing an opportunity to utilize their vocal abilities. Talent is not essential but enjoyment is a must. Together with Sr. Imelda, club moderator, the girls plan their two performances. Rehearsal begins early, as plans for the Choral Festival and Spring Concert take shape. First and second sopranos and altos practice weekly. A general meeting brings all voices together until each note rings perfect. Although our Glee Club is the smallest on the Island, we all agree that their professional style is top quality.

Under the direction of Sister Imelda, Glee Club members raise their voices in song for the annual Spring Concert. In their salute to America both old favorites and popular tunes were performed.

The Monsignor Farrell auditorium resounds with song when the St. Joseph Hill Academy Glee Club performs at the Staten Island Choral festival. Each year the vocal talents of the various Catholic high schools combine for this concert. Many hours of rehearsing contributed to this succcessful program.

Library Club

Keeping the Library functioning properly is the job of the Library Club. Sister Genevieve, as moderator of the club, teaches the girls all a librarian needs to know. They are given the tasks of checking the lending and returning of books, and making sure all newspapers, magazines and books are in their proper places. Responsibility is given to club members when Sister occasionally permits them to open the Library in the morning. Sister tries to instill in her junior librarians a sense of pride in their work through her instruction.

Hope Herald is one of our library's most conscientious assistants. One of the many duties Hope performs as an aide is checking the return of books.

Working in the reference room are the senior members of the Library Club, T. Gemelli, M. Reed, Vice-Pres., B. Loperfido, Pres., E. Zanfini, Treas., and C. DeLillo. The girls are adding the back pocket to several reference books.

Future Teachers

Sara Palletto, as President of the Club, has the responsibility of choosing stories to be used in lessons by the junior teachers in the group. Sister Dolora, club moderator, gladly helps in this department as she discusses one of these stories with Sara.

At one of the monthly meetings of the Future Teachers Club, junior Nancy Gansberg addresses the group with a report she prepared. Nancy formed the first Future Teachers group at Egbert Junior High School. The report explained the success Nancy had with the classes she taught. The responsibilities met by Nancy warranted a special award from the school.

Dramatics

The middle of the first performance of Meet Me in St. Louis, finds Katie, (Stefani O'Connor) and Tootie shocked to hear that Tootie's father has been fired. Now the question is, "Will they have to leave St. Louis?"

Tootie (Marianne Portera) and Esther (Eileen Boyd) rummage through a box of cream confections for a suitable piece of candy. Meanwhile, Agnes (Donna D'Ermilio) looks at her chocolate covered hand.

Backstage, Coke is the thing for irate neighbors. Charlene La Monto (Mrs. Waughop) relaxes after finding Tootie and Angie running across her flowerpatch.

An important part of every production takes place behind scenes and good stagehands are the backbone of the play. K. Johnsen and J. Merola, members of the costume committee, help Ed Callahan prepare for his role.

Forensics

To calm her fears of public speaking, senior Lynn Radonic practices her speech in front of a convenient mirror. Lynn's awards proved that her efforts did not go unnoticed.

Nina Reese, looking for a quiet place to memorize her speech, finally settles for the stairway.

The forensic team assemble by the trophy case—L. Radonic, M. A. Carlson, M. Dubrowski, M. Kassar, K. McKinnon. Kneeling: C. O'Hagan, M. J. Ignozza, E. Boyd, P. Severino, E. Bodnar. Sitting: M. Masefield, L. Siconolfi and J. Hartley.

Science Club

Dissecting a baby shark was a project given to Science Club members A. Schoentube, A. M. Sheehan, G. Gregorowicz and M.Graber. Through this dissection the Seniors became familiar with internal organs of the fish.

In order to calculate the respiration rate of germinating peas, senior Mary Pat Roitzsch sets up a thermobarometer. The Science Club gives those who participate in it a deeper appreciation of the world of research. As Mary Pat illustrates, technique is a definite part of that world.

One of the many projects of the Science Club was to paint the Research Lab. Sister Clarissa, club moderator, and Gerry Moore look quite surprised as they are confronted by the camera of Sr. Albert.

Believe it or not there are people who love mice and Katie Galluzzi is one of them. As a member of the Bio Club she takes charge of the menagerie of four-legged creatures found in the lab. Fish are also important to Bio Club members; Debbie Holton in particular. Debbie is chief keeper of the famed collection which is housed in a fifty-five gallon tank.

A point of interest in the hallway, at least to Donna Stewart and active Club members Helene and Jeanne Cogliandro, seems to be the guinea pigs Sr. Clarissa cuddles. Acquired this year, these pets immediately stole the hearts of all in the Science Club.

Doc Fitzsimmons, dodging her guard, drives in to score two more points for Hill.

The members of the S.J.H.A. Varsity led by captain Maryelisa Graber and co-captain Anne Marie Sheehan are, kneeling: Ceil Haring, Rosemarie Loffredo, Janet Todd, Carol Barbieri, and Lucy Buono. Standing: Doc Fitzsimmons, Peggy Brunda, Donna Pecoraro, Marilyn Marr, Coach Miss Marion "Ma" Leone, Diane Cannavo, Leslie Langworthy, Caryl Ittner and Nancy Martin. Not pictured are Stephanie Woods and Meg McNally. Each game gets more exciting and the team's efforts never go unnoticed. Showing a profitable season, the Varsity's spirit still lingers on.

Taking set shots is part of the Varsity's warm up before a game. As Stephanie Woods rebounds, Carol Barbieri, Lucy Buono and Meg McNally wait to grab the next rebound.

Guarding such a skilled player as St. Peter's Denise Hunt can prove to be a tiresome job, but Stephanie Woods tries her best to prevent Denise from scoring. Serving as guard Stephanie usually comes through with the rebounds.

Coming up with the rebound, Caryl Ittner looks for a helping hand in leading the offense against St. Joseph-by-the-Sea. Doc Fitzsimmons comes around to block Caryl's opponent and help set up a two point play.

Cheerleaders and Boosters

Instilling spirit at a pep rally before a game, cheerleaders Adele Checchi, Barbara Fugazzi, Kathy Foster and Ronnie Sarnese get fans in the mood with some songs. The way the Varsity plays depends not only on their skill but also on the reaction of the fans and stirring up enthusiasm is something the Cheerleaders do best.

The glow on Robin Schoentube's face typifies a vibrant cheerleader urging the Varsity on to victory.

Adding to the Cheerleaders spirit are Boosters, kneeling, Jane Ernst, co-captain and Gloria Ryan, captain. First row, Anne Marie Brown, Tricia McKenna, Marian Walsh and Kathy Collins, second row, Debi Keenan, Regina Fedele, Cathy Blake, Alice Conlon, Monica Foge and coach Lorraine Wiest. Sitting on the stage are Debbie Holton, Alice Smith, Mary Beth Pfeiffer, Gail Greendale, Eileen Haley and Madeline Dubrowski.

"The Hill is up high!" in spirit and points as shown by Eileen Haley, Debi Keenan, Regina Fedele and Mary Beth Pfeiffer.

When you're not on the court cheering it's pretty hard to sit still, especially when you're a Booster. Madeline Dubrowski shows her excitement as the team goes through the paces of another thrilling play.

Keeping their eyes on the game, Eileen Sheehan and Ronnie Sarnese give enthusiastic encouragement to the players. A few words is all they need, for the fans soon start in with the chant of "Let's go Joseph's!"

In formation the S.J.H.A. Cheerleaders are—kneeling: Ronnie Sarnese, Robin Schoentube, Sara Palletto, Margie Potenza, Barbara Coyle, captain, Adele Checchi, Barbara Fugazzi, Carol Logan and Kathy Foster. Standing: Ava Schoentube, co-captain, Joan Wiest, Marguerite DiFalco, Debbie Lynch, Eileen Sheehan, and Geri O'Grady. Fifteen lively spirits bring a welcomed confidence to the Varsity and an added boost to the loyal S.J.H.A. fans. Their pep and vitality proves the mightiness of "Hill Power!"

Gym Club

For the girls who wish to exert a little muscle, and use a bit of elbow grease, the Gym Club is the place to be. B. Fugazzi, C. Brosnahan, J. Wiest, K. Collins and E. Sheehan create a happy hill of their own.

Now what's a Zurmuhlen doing in a Hajostek gym suit? Could be she has changed her identity for a day. Whatever the case may be she probably has a valid excuse. At a Gym Club meeting Kathy seems to be demonstrating her skill in serving the volley ball.

"One, two, three, four—one, two, class begin!" This looks like any ordinary Gym class but actually it's a meeting of the S.J.H.A. Gym Club. As we all know, body form is important to every girl, and extra exercises are always welcome by these enthusiastic members of the Club. Besides the traditional musical exercise "Chicken Fat," bounce series are created to such outstanding arrangements as "Simon Says."

'Up, Up and Away" is Joan Wiest as she shows her trampoline skills. Joan is a member of the Gym Club where Hill girls get a chance to unwind after school. The trampoline is just one of the many things to do in the gym. Gymnastics, Basketball and Volleyball are some of the other favorites.

YCS President Donna Nagengast and moderator Sister Xavier gather with members of the folk group for a rehearsal. Our spirited guitarists provide the accompaniment for the Hill's Folk Masses.

"To Be Alive" is the theme of Senior 107's Religion sessions, even at 8:30 in the morning. Ava Schoentube takes the initiative as class coordinator while Ginger Gregorowicz and Anne Marie Sheehan activate their dancing skills. The remainder of the class is happy to participate in a Christian get together where each girl can express herself as she feels her individual spirit alive and free.

After a day of learning, these Seniors pack up their knowledge and are off to teach CCD at St. Michael's.

The YCS roster of activities included a visit to Bridgeport, Connecticut. The girls arrived armed with Yuletide cheer and homebaked goodies. Sophomores, Monica Foge and Leslie Langworthy ready a fresh batch of cookies for delivery.

A spiritual highlight for the pre-holiday festivities at the Hill was a Christmas Mass celebrated by Father McNamara. Organized by the Seniors, each class contributed to the offertory procession with banners, Christmas decorations, and symbolic gifts. This Mass also previewed the new Canon. Here juniors Chris Mullin and Cathy Brosnahan receive Communion.

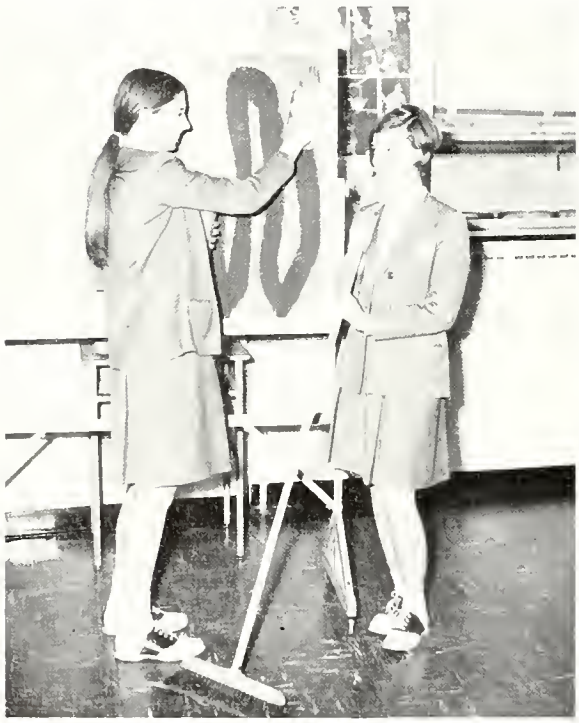

"Summit"

The "Summit" is the news center of our school. It combines the everyday events of school life with awareness, creativity and perseverance of the reporters, thereby producing a paper enjoyed both by students and faculty. The staff is composed of interested Sophomores and Juniors selected by the editor and moderator.

Requirements for a "Summit" reporter include successful completion of a journalism workshop given by the club moderator, Sister Antonia. The girls are taught various aspects of writing for the paper.

Gathering the current news from all sides of the Hill is not an easy task. Sr. Antonia, moderator, E. Delasandro feature editor, R. Fedele assistant editor, G. Palladino reporter and K. Galluzzi editor, combine ideas for the next issue of the "Summit."

To help the "Summit" have a clean, creative atmosphere, press aides Peggy Galluzzi and Alice Conlon employ a variety of methods in keeping the press room spotless.

Day is done for the "Summit" staff, but many more hours remain before the finished copy is sent to the printer. After an afternoon of hard work, editor Katie Galluzzi leads the staff in a moment of relaxation. A combination of talent and good times results in a lively school paper.

Classroom floors are often used as meeting grounds for members of the "Summit." D. Hajostek, B. McMahon, E. Lee, B. Joslyn, C. Russell, R. Noonan, P. Dunne, and D. Stewart gather together to discuss the next edition of the newspaper. As members of the staff, these girls have the obligation of providing the students with interesting and informative reading. Reporting for the "Summit" isn't all hard work, as can be seen by the expressions on the girls' faces.

A quick food break revitalizes "Summit" reporters after the newspaper goes to press and their work is completed.

Artists N. Reese, not pictured and J. DiNunzio are essential to the "Summit" as is T. Pisani, serving as photographer.

Jackie D'Anna seems to be at ease, but as business manager of the hilltopper, she is concerned with raising funds necessary to publish the yearbook. Along with Donna Nagengast, Jackie spent many hours arranging the ads.

One of the greatest tasks of Senior year is the production of the hilltopper. Work begins in October and continues until early spring when the final draft goes to press.

The staff wishes to thank Sister Charlotte and Sister Albert for their help, but more importantly for the trust placed in our literary judgement.

We sincerely hope that our yearbook is meaningful to each girl, because it has touched our lives and these moments will always remain special to us.

*Time it was and what a time it was,
long ago it must be,
I have a photograph.
preserve your memories . . .
*Paul Simon

Identifying the many faces that pop up in pictures taken for the yearbook are staff members Lynn Radonic, Diane Coviello, Pat Severino, Ginger Gregorowicz, Judi Gropp and Regina Castro. Faces can get confusing after awhile but the staff managed to pull through.

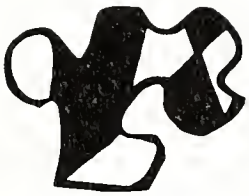

Getting together to plan the final phase of hilltopper 1970 are Donna Nagengast, business manager, Mary Pat Roitzsch, editor, Terry DiLodovico, assistant editor, Marguerite Mauriello, photographic editor and Jackie D'Anna, also a business manager.

Efficient typing is the order of the day, as the typing staff of the yearbook takes time out to pose. They are Mary Reed, Phyllis Carullo, Barbara Loperfido, typing editor and Mary McKenna. Not pictured are Jean Leppanen and Susanne Gitto.

Perplexed by the problem at hand, Terri Tufano, Linda Siconolfi and Jo-Ann Tuohy piece together what is to be a vital part of the yearbook. Anyone who walked into the press room tried their hand at putting a piece in and, although they might not have known what they were doing, they helped lay the foundation for the book.

"Life spins events to recall . . .

Seniors, Skis, and Schrafft's

The ski can be a confusing object of mobility and expert advice is always in need. Here Lynn McAlister instructs Barbara Loperfido.

The Seniors prepared for a weekend of blustering winds and snow covered slopes. As a result their wardrobes consisted of sweaters, scarves, socks, hats, mittens and last but not least - thermal underwear. Gina Castro and Ava Schoentube are quite bundled and wonder if they'll be able to move.

A mass of confusion erupted as Seniors from S.J.H.A. piled into Innsbruck Lodge. For those of you who think one ski is like any other—you're wrong. The Seniors found this out the moment they stepped into their boots, which for many was a difficult task in itself. Just ask Alicia or Barbara.

Did you ever swim in a blue, kidney shaped pool, surrounded by picture windows? The Seniors did, and its location was no other than Schrafft's Motor Inn. Stephanie Zurmuhlen and Anne Marie Sheehan know how to make waves. To sink or swim, that is the question.

It took the Seniors an all time record of twenty minutes to form a single line. Once this was achieved the much needed lessons began.

Vanessa Holton comments on having completed the difficult feat of getting her ski on. Now, the only task is to lift her other foot and click it into position without sliding backwards. One ski on and one ski off will get you nowhere, but try explaining that to beginners.

Five hours of laughing, singing, sitting and sleeping can hardly satisfy a busload of rumbling stomachs. After making their grand entrance into Schrafft's and finding their rooms, the Seniors piled into the dining room for a hardy meal. A variety salad was first on the menu.

In a song a remembrance . . .

After the last song was played and the final dance danced, a Midnight Mass was said in the Social Hall to top off a wonderful evening. The couples look tired, but the Folk Mass was alive and appreciated for with this Mass the Sunday obligation was fulfilled.

Acting as chaperone and photographer Mr. Bud Fedele poses Eileen Haley and her date for pictures.

Opposite page—Tears of joy flow from Deborah Keenan's eyes as a "Midwinter's Night Dream" comes true. Debi was crowned queen of the Junior Dance. Eileen Sheehan and Patricia Johnson were chosen as her attendants. Although the dance is now in the past, happy memories still linger on.

Pausing from prom night festivities this table seems to be having an interesting conversation. Anne Marie Brown manages to capture the photographer's eye with a smile.

In a minute there is time for . . .

Many after school hours extend into the weekend as staff member Terri Tufano, assistant editor Terry DiLodovico and editor Mary Pat Roitzsch, use the press room as a clubhouse for the yearbook staff in the development of the hilltopper.

Pinatas seem to be the thing this year as Hilltoppers gather around the pig to reach the goodies on the inside. Although the Pinata is an old Spanish custom, students of all languages enjoyed the festivities.

A new experience this year was the Senior-Faculty game. Feelings were mixed among the student body as to whom they should root for and although the faculty won, nobody went away mad. ▶

So every detail will be perfect for their long-awaited night, juniors Kathy Logan and Lucy Buono take time out after school to make a shining, blue and green remembrance for the Junior Dance.

Sister Charlotte, Commander-in-Chief of the After School Club, smiles while completing her daily rounds. Always passing through, Sister is a familiar sight to S.J.H.A.'s "night school" students.

Many girls have discovered the spirit of the Hill in activities scheduled for after school. Following an assembly, juniors Gerri Leggiardro and Gina Fedele lag behind to have a friendly conversation. They are waiting to attend an important club meeting.

After the National Honor Society Induction, Rosemary Noonan stopped to talk with Lynn Radonic. During these few minutes, free from the pressures of schoolwork, they had an opportunity to learn more about each other, strengthening their friendship.

"Do you think the garlic bread is ready yet?" Ava Schoentube pops in after cheerleading practice to lend a hand for the NHS spaghetti dinner.

In September a social was held so the upperclassmen could become acquainted with the Class of '73. Staying behind to clean up are Sr. Josita and Kathy Logan, whose face is a familiar sight after school hours.

Decorating class bulletin boards is one of the jobs assigned to the After School Club. For Christmas, Donna Santangelo adorned 206 with ornaments of holiday cheer.

Did you know that S.J.H.A. has the answer to Betty Crocker? She's our own Pat Severino. In honor of hilltopper '70 she prepared a spaghetti dinner. After slaving over a hot stove, Pat and friends sat down to sample her cooking.

Sport's Night

Physical fitness is an asset to a well rounded personality. Satisfaction abounds as these girls receive their Presidential Physical Fitness Awards. In order to obtain this award, the girls are required to pass various fitness tests. The goal was hard earned but well worth the trouble.

The annual Sports Night program combines both the talent and fun found in Gym class. Agility plus determination helps students master difficult acrobatics and strenuous calisthenics. They display their abilities in gymnastic stunts such as the "chair-stands."

Kathy Collins does her "thing" and learns of the freedom of a trampoline. The trampoline is a big attraction at Sports Night and the audience shares in the enthusiasm of the girls as they perform each routine.

Things are looking up for our S.J.H.A. gymnasts during their performance at Sports Night. After weeks of practice, the girls exhibited athletic stunts with much success.

Anne Marie Sheehan uses Cathy Ann Brosnahan for a base as they exhibit strength and endurance. This was just one of the many feats shown in the program.

Skipping rope and just having a good time is what makes this skit look like great fun. Geri Hall really proves that Sports Night can be amusing as well as exciting.

Freshmen Talent Show

The Freshmen took the audience to the depths of the jungle. In tribal costumes of animal skins, C. Giuffre, E. Razzi and M. Loffredo displayed their talents by correlating their Afro-Asian studies with the show.

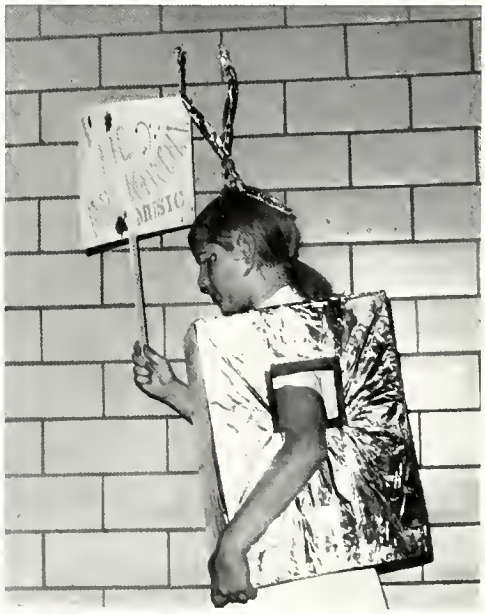

The Freshmen Talent Show is always a delight to the student body. Ceil Haring seems to be protesting that they want to be recognized as the Freshmen of the Hill!

After finishing classes, freshman Karen McKinnon hurries to her locker as she and the rest of her classmates get ready for the presentation of their upcoming talent show.

The Freshmen Talent Show glittered with man-made martians led by Donna Stewart.

Open House

Meeting a group of Hilltoppers on a bus stop is not very unusual. Here tourist guide, Gail Greendale takes this opportunity to ask senior Jean Beil about her life at the Hill. Sophomore Cathy Blake, and juniors Liz Gargiulo, Betsy Joslyn and Grace Palladino wait to be interviewed.

The behind the scenes action at any program is just as important as the action on stage. This is proved as Sister Clarissa, a member of the Open House kitchen crew, cleans the counter.

Our growing science department and the new radiation scintillator were special points of interest during Open House. Mrs. Holton and her daughter Maryann toured the school with a personal explanation given by senior Sue LaDuca.

Around these images memories come

Adding to the excitement of ring day is the symbolic gesture of turning the rings. Sister Albert wishes Caryl Ittner lots of luck as her classmates gather around.

Chris Mullin beams a smile of pride and contentment after receiving her ring. These feelings pervaded the chapel, as each Junior experienced the joy of wearing her ring for the very first time.

The aura surrounding a school ring is all too mysterious for a Freshman. In Junior year, anticipation reaches a peak and each girl wonders what makes the ring so special. Then, the moment arrives—a feeling of oneness with the Hill materializes. Here, Father Elmer Reiss presents Maureen Whyte with her ring. Joan Wiest and Stephanie Woods wait as their moment of awareness approaches.

Alumnae

Coming back for a short visit to old friends is always fun. Alumnae Susan Fitzgerald and Nancy Kelly are chatting with juniors Stephanie Woods and Anne Marie Brown about the new lives they found upon leaving St. Joseph's.

Sandra Gargaloni, a '64 graduate, smiles as she plays the accordian for a dance in the Social Hall.

One of the many activities the Alumni Association sponsors each year is a Communion Breakfast. This year Father O'Donnell of Augustinian Academy was the guest speaker. As in past years, old friendships were renewed and happy memories were relived.

Father's Club

Beneath the lights hung specially for the occasion, moms and dads take a little time out to enjoy themselves at a social sponsored by the Father's Club. Dancing on the patio, the parents seem to be enjoying a pleasant combination of music and spring air.

A member of the Father's Club, Mr. J. D'Angelo, helps the Mother's Guild by catering their farewell dinner.

Each year the members of the Father's Club are given the opportunity to meet with the faculty. Here they discuss their daughter's progress and educational development.

Sports Night is an annual event sponsored by the Father's Club. This year's guest of honor was Bill Hands, pitcher for the Chicago Cubs. Terry DiLodovico, Peggy Brunda, and Cathy Ann Brosnahan anxiously look on as Marge Potenza gets her baseball autographed. Sorry girls, the Cubs roster is complete!

Each year the Father's Club changes, and with these changes comes the transferral of office. Mr. Vic Prevosti, President for the 1968-1969 term, accepts a plaque of recognition for his service from the current president, Mr. R. Mazzeo. Sister Charlotte and Sister Perpetua look on approvingly.

Mother's Guild

The Social Hall patio was the perfect spot for dancing at one of the Mother's Club socials. These parents seems to be enjoying music under the stars. Smiling the photographers way are the V. Prevostis, E. Persichettis, and P. Henrys.

Mrs. Gloria Schmid, center, and her daughters Mrs. Donna Gallagher and Claudia smile for a picture on the front steps of the Shalimar. The three were arriving at the Mother-Daughter Communion Breakfast, a traditional event for Guild members.

Above—Following the Mass, the Fitzsimmons and Sheehan families along with Cathy Ann Brosnahan spend a few moments looking over the program before breakfast is served.

Active members of the Mother's Club, Mrs. C. Barone, Mrs. N. Pelligrino, Mrs. G. Paddenburg, Club President, Mrs. D. Eadicicco, and Mrs. N. D'Ambrosio, pause from Card Party festivities.

I Would Not exchange the laughter of my heart for the fortunes of the multitudes; nor would I be content with converting my tears, invited by my agonized self, into calm. It is my fervent hope that my whole life on his earth will ever be tears and laughter.

Tears that purify my heart and reveal to me the secret of life and its mystery.
Laughter that brings me closer to my fellowmen;
Tears with which I join the broken-hearted,
Laughter that symbolizes joy over my very existence.

K. Gibran

To My Friends, I wish forever Tears & Laughter

The snow melts on the mountain
And the water runs down to the spring
And the spring in a turbulent fountain,
With a song of youth to sing,
Runs down to the riotous river,
And the river flows to the sea,
And the water again
Goes back in rain
To the hills where it used to be.
And I wonder if live's deep mystery
Isn't much like the rain and the snow
Returning through all eternity
To the places it used to know.
